The French word ‘Biscotte’ means twice baked. Baking it twice gives it its crisp, appetising taste. Biscotte is a type of toasted bread made using fresh French bread and can be used for a number of different ways.

Traditionally in France, Biscotte is used for breakfast, smothered in butter and jam or chocolate spread, accompanied with a morning coffee and some fruit. However, our Biscotte range is more diverse and has a wide variety of uses.

We also produce a comprehensive range of croutons, that can be tossed over a salad or sprinkled over a warm bowl of soup, in a selection of flavours and pack sizes. What’s more, we offer a range of handheld bagged snacks.
Mini Toast

Our Mini Toast are little slices of twice baked bite-sized bread that are perfect for party canapés or as a snack.

With these, you can be creative with any topping whether it is sweet or savoury. Why not try with smoked salmon and crème fraîche? Or simply accompany them with cheddar and chutney.

These are a great, healthy and low fat alternative to crackers. The possibilities are endless!
